FCC Chairman Julius Genachowski's top deputies are meeting behind closed doors with industry lobbyists to cut a deal that would effectively hand over control of the Internet to Verizon, Comcast and AT&T.

Government officials are catering to big business instead of protecting the American people — just like they did before the BP oil disaster and the financial crisis.

This time, get ready for higher prices, fewer choices and an Internet with corporate gatekeepers picking winners and losers online.

President Obama, you promised to take a “back seat to no one” in protecting Net Neutrality and free speech online.

Don't let our Internet go the way of Wall Street and the Gulf of Mexico.

Insist that the Federal Communications Commission protect the future of communications in America.

Stand up to Big Phone and Big Cable.

Save the Internet.
